About Expedia and Booking Holdings VCC Payments

There are at least 3,000,000 small hotel establishments, bed & breakfasts, private houses, etc. that feature as bookable accommodations on Booking Holdings and Expedia branded websites. This number continues to grow, month-to-month, as travelers begin to explore B&B alternatives instead of regular hotel accommodations.

In 2017, Booking Holdings reported revenue of USD $12.7 billion (brands include Booking.com, Priceline.com, Kayak.com, Agoda.com) and Expedia reported USD $10.6 billion (brands include Expedia.com, Hotels.com, Hotwire.com, Trivago.com, Venere.com, Travelocity.com, Orbitz.com and HomeAway.com). An increasing percentage of these revenues are derived from non-traditional accommodations. As of December 2017, 75% of booking properties were homes, apartments and other non-traditional places to stay. This category grew 53% from December 2016 to December 2017. Likewise, Expedia saw its Homeaway division's revenue increase by 40% in 2017. This is clearly a trend in which RevoluPAY® clearance of VCC payments could experience exceptional growth.

Why Property Owners Choose VCC Payments

B&B owners and small hotel establishments can ask Booking or Expedia to pay them by bank transfer but this method can take between 30 to 60 days to arrive, depending on monthly and bi-monthly wire payment cycles or the country of destination. The other available option available is payment through VCC, which is instantaneous, assuming the property owner has a viable method to collect funds from the VCC. Most credit card merchant accounts available today do not permit manual input of card data nor VCC, thus, posing a significant dilemma for the property owners or their agents. However, RevoluPAY® seamlessly offers this feature, under a specific agreement, permitting property owners to immediately and instantly settle VCC payments directly into their e-Wallet and, subsequently, forward these funds to their bank account.

What is a Virtual Credit Card (VCC) and How Does it Work?

VCC's are online Mastercards or Visas that allow online payments to be made easily and safely. For each reservation, a specific VCC is generated by Booking or Expedia for the net amount due to the property owner or their agent for a specific reservation. Each VCC can only be used once (one card per reservation) and has a unique card number, with its expiration date and CVC, and cannot be reused. VCC's also carry an activation date, which depends on the booking conditions of the accommodation. In the case of non-refundable reservations, the VCC is generated as soon as the booking is made. In the case of reservations with flexible cancellation terms, the VCC activation date is the client's check-in date.

RevoluPAY® Projected Processing Fees for VCC Transactions

In most cases, the VCC issuer, being the OTA, will charge approximately 3% of the resulting amount payable to the property owner. This 3% is, however, often less than an international wire fee. Secondly, the industry standard for credit card processing fees to merchants is between 2.87 and 4.35% per transaction or, an average of 3.61%. In situations where cards are not present (such as those via VCC), the average is closer to 3.8%. Both VCC issuer fee at approximately 3% plus, the average 3.8%, results in a middling VCC deduction for property owners or, their agents, of 6.8%. RevoluPAY® expects to significantly lower these processing fees for VCC payments to property owners to between 4.5 to 5% while, at the same time, ensuring an excellent new RevoluPAY® revenue stream for shareholders.
